

Brazil Boogie, where the pre-trip email stands

For Kyle, 8 September 2026.

ANSWERING YOUR QUESTIONS

No Brazilian federation paperwork is needed. CBPq's own Codigo Esportivo 2025 settles it. Article 6 says a foreign jumper carries a licence issued by a body CBPq recognises, which covers USPA. Article 15 says foreign licences are accepted free of charge for up to 30 days, and only past that does anyone have to register with CBPq. The trip runs eight days, so nobody needs to file anything.

The same article does require every jumper to carry a logbook alongside the licence, so that is now in the email.

The waiver cannot be Skydive Búzios' tandem form. Their form releases Skydive Búzios for tandem jumps. It does not name the LLC and it says nothing about the helicopter. Their form also will not give us media rights, which is the piece we actually need signed.

Insurance is only on the jumping. An operator's policy covers that operator, so the one thing worth having is our LLC named as an additional insured on the policies Skydive Búzios and the helicopter company already carry, which is a request to them rather than something we buy. The villa, the vans, the beach days and the group outings are deliberately left alone.

Food, dishes and house rules are staying out of the email. Callie is covering all of it at the welcome dinner on the first night, where it lands better anyway. The one exception is a single line saying meals are not included, because people are budgeting for the week right now.

Guests sign in person on arrival. No online form tool, no chasing anyone by email.

Packing list and the money and connectivity section are cut. They made the email long without changing what anyone actually has to do before flying.

WHAT HAS BEEN ADDED TO THE EMAIL

Rio Galeão (GIG) and Cabo Frio (CFB) named properly instead of "Rio".

A USPA B licence as the jump requirement, bring your logbook, and make sure your reserve is in date through the 19th, since a repack can take weeks to book in.

Insurance that actually covers skydiving, with a warning that most travel policies exclude it by default.

Travelling with your rig, built from your draft. Carry-on, its own bag, the CYPRES x-ray card and the TSA parachute page both linked, thirty extra minutes at the airport, and what to do if a screener pushes back.

One line that meals are not included.

One line that a day by day schedule of activities is coming and people can join what they like.

Both WhatsApp numbers in the help block, Callie on +34 674 48774 and yours.

WHAT IS STILL YOURS

1. Create the WhatsApp group and send Callie the link. The email is finished and this is the only thing holding it. Nothing else is outstanding on the send.
2. Build the participant agreement. One document covering the liability waiver, medical fitness disclosure, emergency contact and media and likeness release. It has to name the LLC as a released party and cover the skydiving and the helicopter.
3. Get an attorney to review it. Brazilian consumer law limits waivers more than US law does, and the event happens in Brazil, so a release written for Colorado may not hold where the jumping happens.
4. Ask Skydive Búzios and the helicopter company for their certificate of insurance, each naming the LLC as an additional insured. That is the whole insurance job.

WE CAN WORK ON THIS TOGETHER

The day by day activity schedule. The email tells everyone that one is coming closer to the time, so it does need to exist before the trip. Rather than either of us building it alone, let's put it together between us once the WhatsApp group is up and people start saying what they want to do.
